ROMMEL'S ARMY IS FLEEING WESTWARD, 8TH ARMY PURSUING

Nazi Troops Routed, Disorganized, Deprived of Important Leadership

DESTROY 600 PLANES

More Than 100,000 Tons of Axis Shipping Sunk or Damaged

By International News Service
CAIRO, Nov. 5.—Routed and disorganized, deprived of important leadership and pounded to pieces by American and British bombing planes, the army of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel fled westward over the Egyptian desert today with the British Imperial Eighth Army in hot pursuit.

While responsible military quarters in Cairo anticipated the Axis force would establish some sort of a mobile rear guard to slow up the British and save his forces from complete annihilation, an official communique issued by the Middle East high command served only to emphasize the Allied triumph.

Late this afternoon, with the British pressing steadily forward across the desert wastes, the "box-scores" stood this way—

1—More than 600 enemy planes destroyed or damaged in air combats or on the ground.

2—More than 100,000 tons of Axis shipping—essential to replenishment of Rommel's forces—sunk or damaged since the British offensive began only 13 days ago.

3—More than 9,000 Axis prisoners—almost equivalent to a full desert division—captured.

As for Rommel himself, it was assumed he was directing the German retreat with the same ability he commanded earlier advances. Authoritative information in Cairo made it clear that Rommel would not be able to shift responsibility for disaster upon any subordinate.

Navy Man is Tendered Farewell at Croydon

CROYDON, Nov. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lahr entertained on Sunday evening at a farewell party for their son, John, who has enlisted in the U. S. Navy. Child Welfare Fund Is Swelled By Card Party

Bucks County Salon, No. 74, 8 'n' 40 Societe, conducted a card party for child welfare on Monday evening in Bracken Post Home. Mrs. Walter Strouse was chairman, with members from Bristol serving on the committee. Seventeen tables of pinocle players were formed and prizes were given. High scores were won by: E. E. Smith, 818; Mrs. Ann Kelly, 813; Linda Mas-siolo, 805; Helen Dewsnap, 786; R. B. Cox, 785; Mae Barnett, 739. Refreshments were served.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

CLEANED BY REPORTERS

When the Doylestown Chamber of Commerce met, it was announced that the County Commissioners have been kind enough to offer their plot of ground facing Main street between the Administration Building and the Court House Annex, at Doylestown, for the honor roll for which a location has been sought for a long time.

The acceptance of this offer by the honor roll committee completes arrangements for the honor roll which will be executed very soon.

Another appeal for the names of persons from Doylestown and the township who are in the armed services or the WAAC and WAVES was made at this meeting, so that the honor roll may be made complete by Stanley Bowers and his committee.

The home nursing class given by the Morrisville Red Cross will begin this afternoon at two o'clock in the Red Cross room of the Community House, at Morrisville, with Miss Laura Koch, community nurse, as the instructor.

All the women of the town are urged to join the class, which will last for 12 weeks, in order to prepare themselves for taking care of the sick in their own homes, as well as relieving the regular nurses for hospital duty and other emergencies during the present time.

Mrs. Frank Miller, chairman of the course, has announced that registrations are still being accepted, and anyone interested may contact her, or become a member of the class by simply coming to the first meeting today.

In a drive to recruit workers, the New Hope Chapter of the Red Cross is giving the public a panoramic view of all Red Cross work by means of window displays in a New Hope store.

The display is changed about every second day in order to give a complete picture. The first window featured first aid and window cards called upon the public to join Red Cross first aid classes. Another window shows all of the production work of the Red Cross, knitting, sewing and surgical dressings. The need for workers on surgical dressings is acute.

Mrs. Iris Sibley, who arranged the production window, has more than 600 hours of work to her credit in surgical dressings. Future windows will display.

"BOB" FOR APPLES

CROYDON, Nov. 5.—Troop No. 2, Junior Catholic Daughters, met at the home of Miss Mary Fallon, on Saturday afternoon. Bobbing for apples and quiz games were enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to Helene and Patricia Coyne and Ada Lineman, Dorothy Wunsch, assistant counselor, was in charge of the meeting.

GIRL FOR BUCKWALTERS

Mr. and Mrs. John Buckwalter, Radcliffe street, are the proud parents of a girl, born Saturday in the Wagner Hospital.

BRITISH FACE FOURTH WINTER OF WAR WITH RESOLUTION TO FIGHT UNTIL VICTORY IS WON

By Leo V. Dolan

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Nov. 5.—(INS)—It's the little things of life in Londontown that bring home Britain's resolution to go on—and on—until the last swastika flaps down in Berlin.

Little things on the eve of the fourth winter of war... mean, uncomfortable, irritating little things... accepted without question and almost eagerly in some cases voluntarily imposed—by the unsung little men and women of this tight little isle.

The heating problem, for instance. Blackout time comes ever earlier these nights, and with it come chilly temperatures that grow chillier each night. Did these people complain when decision was taken to keep cold the central heating furnaces until November 1st?

Not they. Instead they're going to bed earlier these nights, dressing robes over pajamas in many cases, feet resting on precious hot-water bottles or heated, old-fashioned flat-

GOV. ELECT AND GOV. JAMES CONFER WITH STATE LEADERS

Shape Plans for New Administration Which Assumes Duties in January

ELECTION FIGURES

Virtually Complete Returns Give Martin 1,360,000 Votes

By Raymond Wilcoxe
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—(INS)—Governor-elect Edward Martin conferred at the capital today with Governor Arthur H. James and other Republican leaders as plans were shaped for the new administration which will take over the affairs of state in January.

Elected in Tuesday's balloting by a majority of approximately 218,000 votes, along with a Republican General Assembly, the Governor-elect told neighbors at his Washington, Pa. home shortly before he left for Harrisburg that "I'll be busy. We've got to get things moving because of the war effort. It takes time, you know."

Virtually complete returns from the State's 8,135 precincts gave Martin a total of approximately 1,360,000 votes, while his Democratic opponent, Auditor General P. Clair Ross, received 1,142,000. Martin's running mates for Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of Internal Affairs, Justice of the Supreme Court, Judge of the Superior Court and Congressman-at-Large received similar majorities.

In addition, the Republicans regained control of the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation, electing 18 or 19 of the State's Representatives, as against 14 or 15 for the Democrats. The Democrats at present control 17 seats to the Republicans' 16, with one vacancy. The result in the 22nd Congressional district was in doubt, with Chester B. Gross, Republican, leading the veteran Democrat incumbent, Harry L. Haines, by only 166 votes, with the soldiers' ballots still to be tabulated.

The Republicans won a commanding lead in the State House of Representatives, which they lost to the Democrats in the 1940 election. According to the Chief Clerk's office, complete but unofficial tabulations showed 132 Republicans and 76 Democrats elected, but with the result still in doubt in several counties. Thus, the G. O. P. overturned the commanding 126 to 82 lead which the Democrats held until now in the lower chamber.

The Republicans retained their 32 to 18 margin in the Senate and may gain a seat when complete returns are in from one doubtful district. They failed, however, to secure the 34 votes.

EXPLAINS EXCISE TAXES ON VARIOUS ARTICLES

Tax Per Unit Must Be Separately Stated for Each Article

POSTING REQUIREMENTS

The Bucks County War Price and Rationing Board today issued the following statement:

"In passing on to consumers the new federal excise taxes on cost-of-living commodities such as cigarettes, the tax per unit must be separately stated on cards, lists or labels used for posting ceiling prices of these commodities under Office of Price Administration regulations.

"Posting requirements in connection with the tax were announced by the Board on October 14.

DISCARDED SILK AND NYLON HOSIERY NEEDED TO AID THE WAR EFFORT; BUCKS COUNTY TO BE ORGANIZED FOR COLLECTION CAMPAIGN

Now girls you are asked to save your discarded silk and nylon hosiery so as to aid the war effort.

Mrs. George R. Leattor, Doylestown, has been appointed chairman of the campaign in Bucks County. She will shortly organize the entire county and centrally located depositories will be announced where the discarded hosiery can be left.

All hosiery must be washed, and this is a very important part of the program, it is stated.

"Don't throw away your discarded stockings—Help win the war," is the slogan of the hosiery collection committee.

GOLDEN PALOMINOS ARE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

William M. Hill, Sellersville, Appears Before Science Association

SHOWS "PIRATE HONEY"

NEWTOWN, Nov. 5.—The last of a series of meetings held by Bucks County Natural Science Association took place on Saturday in Newtown Friends' Meeting House. The program was of unusual interest, covering two subjects, either one of which was quite sure to arouse the enthusiasm of the 60 people in attendance.

William M. Hill, Sellersville, was the first speaker. He retold the romantic story of the Palomino horse which had its origin among the Arabs but which the Moors took to Spain. He mentioned that Cortez in turn brought Palominos as the first horses to the North American continent. Queen Isabella in the early fifteenth century sent over to the West Indies and to Mexico many more of these beautiful Golden steeds. The true body color of a Palomino is golden with dark eyes and skin, and light ivory, wavy tail and mane, and a blaze of white on the face, with one or more white stockings. They are remarkably friendly and intelligent. Some are bred for stock horses for ranches but more are bred for bridge paths, they having mostly three gaits. A third type is reserved for parade use. It is said that on many formal occasions, British royalty have these golden equines to draw their coach.

Artists have used the Palomino on many a canvas—as in Rembrandt's "Rape of Europe" and Rolandt's "Autumn in the Garden of Eden."

California and Texas lead in Palomino ranches. "Pirate Gold" is the most valuable stallion, placed at $50,000. Mr. Hill owns several in the second generation from Pirate Gold. In a trailer, the speaker brought to Newtown to make his subject yet more clear a young mare which had won a fine recognition at a Fort Worth, Texas, show. Her name is Pirate Honey. At home he had two other winners in direct line from Pirate Gold, named Pirate Ruby and Pirate Sugar Plum. There are in all at the Hill farm some 22 Palominos, which so well known even as far back as centuries B. C., seemed almost to disappear from this country but which now are being carefully bred to make sure that the Golden Horse will continue to hold its deserved place in horse history.

The meeting held a short recess to enable the group to get acquainted with Pirate Honey.

Mrs. Roy Brown Died From Drowning, Says Dep. Coroner

Mrs. Roy Brown, Morrisville, whose body was found in the canal Tuesday afternoon, between Morrisville and Yardley, died of drowning, according to Deputy Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwells Heights.

It was erroneously reported in the Courier yesterday that Rigby had stated that he believed that the woman had committed suicide.

Mrs. Brown, it is stated, had not been in the best of health recently and it is presumed that she fell into the water while walking along the stream as was her custom. She was subject to fainting spells, it is stated.

NAUM LISENKO

Naum Lisenko, husband of Katie Lisenko, died at Doylestown on November 2nd. Relatives and friends are invited to attend the rites from the Wm. L. Murphy Estate funeral parlors, 316 Jefferson avenue, on Saturday at nine a. m. Requiem Mass will be said in St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

More Than He Asked For

James Hetherington, who advertised for a pair of lost glasses in a recent issue of The Bristol Courier, got more than he bargained for. Two pairs of "specs" were taken to his home by readers of The Courier.

The correct pair was returned to Mr. Hetherington a few hours after The Courier was on the street, he states.

Binoculars Needed By Aircraft Spotters Here

A request is made by officials of the Aircraft Warning Service Station, located to the south of Bristol, for use of a pair of binoculars. It is requested that anyone who has a pair of binoculars to lend to the "spotters," contact Earl McEuen, Bristol 480.

The station has been painted inside and out, and a flag pole will be placed within a week or so. An American flag has been purchased with money donated by observers.

More observers are needed, it is stated, especially for the one to four a. m. shift each Tuesday.

AXEL SWAIN DIES AS HE READS NEWSPAPER

One Son Had Left for Training in Navy Only a Few Hours Previous

FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

EDGELY, Nov. 5.—A few hours after his son left for naval training yesterday, Axel Swain died at his home on North Radcliffe street, here.

Mr. Swain had been in ill health for the past year. At about 4:30 o'clock he was reading a newspaper as he sat in the living room of his home. Suddenly the paper fell to his lap, and the shocked members of his family saw that life was extinct.

For many years he had conducted a bakery trade, operating a shop locally. He had lived in Edgely for approximately 25 years, coming here from Bristol. His birth-place was Fallington.

Mr. Swain's survivors include his wife, Eunice Gamble Swain; two daughters, Mrs. James Bergen, Edgely; Mrs. Thomas Powell, Trevose; and two sons, Ronald Swain, of Edgely, and George Darwin Swain, who entered training with the U. S. Navy yesterday.

The deceased was a member of Bristol Methodist Church.

The Rev. W. E. Preston Haas, pastor of the Bristol Methodist Church, will conduct the service at the funeral home of George Molden, Bristol, on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will take place in Bristol Cemetery, and friends may call Friday evening.

Croydon Tot, Aged 6, Missing From Her Home All Day

CROYDON, Nov. 5.—Missing from her home for seven hours, little Janet White, aged six, was located at five o'clock on Monday afternoon, after spending some time at the home of a play-mate.

The little girl, dismissed with other pupils from Croydon public school at about 10 o'clock when repairs were required to the heating system, went home with a school-mate and played there throughout the remainder of the morning and during the afternoon.

Her mother, becoming alarmed when the child failed to appear at lunch time, made a search. Finally police officials were notified and officers detailed. At about five o'clock Janet walked to her home. She is the daughter of Mrs. Nicholas VanSoest, Washington avenue.

9TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Streep, Roosevelt street, entertained on Sunday evening at dinner in honor of their ninth wedding anniversary. The invitation list included: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Moore, Harry Streep, Ellis Ratcliffe, Jr., Vincent Cordisco and Mr. and Mrs. William Harding, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. William Walton, Hulmeville; and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kellett, Langhorne.

TAKE CANNED GOODS

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Bristol Fire Company, No. 1, will hold a meeting this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the fire station. The members are requested to take their allotment of canned merchandise.

31 Members of American Crew Lost

An East Coast Port—Thirty-one members of a crew of 50 on a medium-sized American freighter torpedoed off the northern coast of South America were lost when the boat sank before lifeboats could be launched, survivors reported today. Survivors remained afloat for eight and a half hours before being picked up by a United Nations war vessel and taken to a Caribbean port.

George M. Cohan Dies

New York—George M. Cohan, the Yankee Doodle Dandy who became the most beloved character of the American theatre, died at his Fifth Avenue home early today from the effects of a lingering intestinal ailment.

The man whose immortal songs paced the growth of the country he loved, succumbed at the age of 64. He had been ill for over a year—since a stomach disturbance forced him to undergo an operation on October 19, 1941.

Third Citation Awarded Some Allied Airmen

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters in Australia—Oakleaf clusters, denoting a third citation for gallantry, were awarded today to a group of Allied airmen. Those decorated included: Sgt. John Geckler, Middletown, Pa.

Geckler shot down an enemy plane and scattered the rest of a formation of twenty Zeros which attacked his bomber during an August raid on Rabaul.

PATRIOTIC PREVENTION

Statistics do not mean much to the average newspaper reader. They are rather dull fare as a rule. But sometimes statistics are so startling that they cannot be overlooked. In this category are the figures reported by Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy of the Navy at a recent meeting of the National Safety Congress.

Admiral Blandy confided his report to the tremendous loss suffered on the home front by accidents of various sorts. In brief, this is what he said:

Industrial accidents have caused the loss of more manhours of production than all strikes, shortages and transportation difficulties combined.

Since December 7 almost twice as many people have been killed in the United States by accidents as have been killed in England by German bombing in three years of war.

Since December 7 accidents have resulted in a loss of more than 3,000,000,000 man-hours—the same productive energy involved in building 100 aircraft carriers or 45 bat-tleships or 75,000 fighter planes.

In the same period more Americans have been permanently disabled by accidents on the home front than the total of American armed forces wounded, captured and killed in action.

Admiral Blandy emphasized that these figures, although they seem incredible are true. He added that careless persons, in war work or not, are sabotaging not only war production but the strained medical facilities of the country. If they are hurt through their own carelessness they may take up hospital space and care which could be used by war workers, soldiers or sailors.

The admiral's figures deserve the consideration of every citizen who regards the war effort as this country's primary issue. They deserve not only consideration but action on the lesson they hold. If accidents take such a terrific toll of American war production, then it is the patriotic duty of every American to exercise the utmost care to prevent them.

Accidents do not just happen. They are induced by carelessness. And carelessness in these critical days is tantamount to sabotage.

NO MORE HIGH HEELS

High heels for women's shoes are out for the duration of the war. Reasons given are that women will be doing more walking than formerly, and that this move will conserve leather.

The news was divulged by shoe men at the convention of the National Shoe Retailers' Association and the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association in Chicago this week. This newspaper, always striving to be first with the latest in feminine fashions hastens to pass the news along to its feminine readers.

Simple, low-heeled oxfords will be the style in new shoes for ladies. There can be no extra decorations of leather bows on the shoe toes.

"The restrictions are certainly all for improving the looks of women's shoes, which were getting pretty wild," a spokesman for the industry said. "Simplified patterns enable us to concentrate more easily than before on the fit and comfort of shoes."

Resistance to the Nazi squeeze being manifested in France and other occupied countries is only a faint rustle of the storm to come.

serving London's suburbs, will be stringently curtailed. Taxicabs will be as scarce as hen's teeth. (They're almost that scarce now.)

Sunday evening church services so dear to your English parishioner, will go by the boards in many cases and afternoon services substituted. Legitimate theatres and movies also will move forward their programs.

But nobody complains.
Napkins Disappear

Napkins in once-swanky restaurants are a rarity now, and soon tablecloths may follow them into the limbo of forgotten things. Laundry is a precious thing these days, and only those workers who can be spared from war-production jobs are behind the steaming tubs now. And then only for absolute necessity. If my wife knew how often my shirts and socks are changed, she'd be horrified.

But it's not these tangible things that grip you. It's the grim and silent spirit of determination of these people.

Through volunteering or conscription, women from 18 to 50 today are actively serving the nation—either in the fighting forces or in factories turning out guns and tanks, planes and munitions. Right now single women, from 20 to 25, are called out of their homes and placed in the armed forces. In addition, the Government has launched a campaign asking married women—including the wives of soldiers, sailors and airmen—to volunteer for the WRNS, the ATS and the WAAP.

They are responding by the thousands, a new reservoir tapped so that every available man can be given a gun and shoved forward for the battle that is coming.

That's why these people are not complaining. They are anxious for the day when the second front opens. They'll make any sacrifice to bring nearer that day.

They don't complain because they agree with the Government poster, urging the recruiting of married women into the armed services.

The poster says:
"When the offensive takes place, IT MUST NOT FAIL."

Golden Palominos Are Subject of Address

Upon re-assembling, a monologue was given by Miss Iva B. Warner, of Malvern, in old-fashioned costume, entitled "Herbs of Grandmother's Day." Culinary herbs, fragrant herbs, and medicinal herbs were taken up with many specimens to illustrate each type. Bits of poetry, fables, wise sayings, strange superstitions, and historical references were cleverly intermingled. Points for laying out of a herb garden with wagon wheel or ladder, or knot garden type—or with sundial accent and vine-covered archway, were all given as well as suggestions as to time and manner of herb drying. As to soil condition, Miss Warner declared most herbs do not require richness but do appreciate sun and air. A few varieties are hard however to keep, having a way of wearing themselves out regardless of satisfactory conditions.

At the conclusion of Miss Warner's presentation she showed a large number of pamphlets, cards, books, dried herbs and herb almanacs which made the lesson even more complete for the members of this association which has a paid-up membership last year of 85. Ten new members were gained in the summer, and eight more joined at the conclusion of this final fall meeting. Another series of programs will be offered in the spring.

Invitations were received to attend the fall meeting of Delaware Valley Naturalists' Union to be held November 14th at 1.15 at "The Whittier," Philadelphia. This is a luncheon meeting for which reservations must be made to Lydia P. Borden, 1809 N. 15th street, Philadelphia, by November 12th. The lecture will be given by Dr. Edgar T. Wherry of the University of Pennsylvania, on "Notable Plants of the Delaware Valley." I will be recalled that the fern trail at Bowman's Hill is named after this noted botanist.

SCRAP STATUE

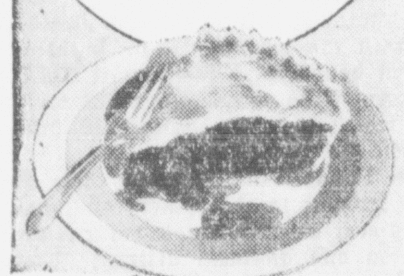

CANTON, O.—(INS)—Canton's own Lady Justice, which for nearly 50 years stood atop the old office building of the Berger Manufacturing Division of the Republic Steel Corp., has taken a new lease on life.

The 13-foot, 400-pound zinc statue grimy and battered after almost a half century of facing the elements, will seek justice of a new variety. It has been donated to Canton's scrap metal drive.

Republic officials admit the "Lady" is a sorry looking sight with her scales for weighing justice gone and her sword broken, but she will furnish vital materials for modern war weapons.

GIRL IN THE GREEN COAT by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
The nurse came in. Emilie closed her eyes and the nurse said:

"I think Mrs. Raymond would like to sleep now. You can come again," Emilie lifted her head.

"Go away!"

"Just a little rest, dear, then you can talk some more."

"No!" Emilie said.

Surprisingly enough, the nurse went away. Maybe she went to call the doctor.

"Oh, to think," Emilie said, "to think someone was there! And I thought nobody knew. I was sure that nobody—"

"He was asleep!" I said, "he really was. He'd been sitting up coming across the country on a bus for four nights and he really slept through the whole thing. I didn't believe it at first, either, but now I do. All he really was was walking in with the green coat on—just your back, because you didn't turn toward him, you faced the other way, toward the piano—"

She had covered her face with her hands and her hands were shaking.

"Nothing works out right," she cried, "NOTHING!"

I expected the nurse to come back any moment, but she didn't.

"Well, it doesn't matter now," Emilie said. "I guess there's always something like that."

"From the start everything went wrong that night. As soon as he came into the room I knew it. He had never been quite like that, so cold and hard. He was angry because I had called so often, and because he was taking a risk coming. He was angry and afraid. I could not quiet him and reassure him as I always had before. I was angry and afraid, too. I kept wringing my hands and saying, 'You've got to do something, you've got to. I can't wait any longer!'"

"He said, 'Is that what you brought me here for—when my mother is dying and my house is full of doctors and trained nurses and I should be there, too?'"

"I said, 'Oh you're always saying that. You've been saying it for three months. If she's dying why doesn't she die? Why doesn't she die tonight? Oh, if we could only be married right now—tonight—so that I wouldn't have to worry—'"

"He said, 'Can't you forget yourself for a minute and think of her? She loves life, she doesn't want to die. Let her be!'"

"I said, 'But what about me? Have you forgotten me? And the child? It's—Castle baby. It's your mother's grandchild. Even she wouldn't want it to be born under these circumstances.'"

"Then he said it. He said, 'That's just it. You can't go through with it, Emilie. Why don't you have some sense? I'll give you all the money you need.'"

"I couldn't believe it of him. I just couldn't believe it. When I saw that he meant it, I tried to tell him what I felt and he lost his head, too, and said, 'You can't prove anything! You can't hang anything on me. You're of age aren't you?'"

"Even then I wouldn't really listen. I wouldn't let him talk. I talked all the time. I talked like a fool. I talked like a woman talks to the man she loves, saying my thoughts out loud, and all the while trying to push me away and I was trying to push myself at his feet and held on to his knees. I had no pride for myself. I only wanted to be loved."

him, because I saw that he was going away—forever. I threatened to go to his mother, take it to court, all kinds of crazy things.

"He turned on me in a cold fury. He told me that no one would believe me, that no one, not one person in the world knew that he even knew me!"

"He said he had been too careful—too smart. In all our two years together he had taken care that there was nothing that I could ever prove. 'So,' he said, 'you'd better pull yourself together and not act like a crazy woman. I've been a fool to put up with you as long as I have. You've killed any feeling I might have had for you by your crying and your nagging and your threats. I just despise you now. I'm free of you now—we're through!'"

"I went quite mad then, and still I knew exactly what I was doing. I must have known what I was going to do—and what he was going to do—because before I came down I slipped the old pistol that had been Pete's in the pocket of the housecoat. I didn't even know that I knew how to shoot the thing. But I got between him and the door and when he saw that I had it, he tried to run the other way, to the window. So I shot him. I shot twice. And he—he died."

I sat there. My knees were funny. I wanted to get up but I was afraid I couldn't.

Emilie looked at me sort of pityingly. She didn't look at all the way someone who has killed somebody, and is telling about it, should look.

She said:

"I'm sorry your mind so much. It's really a terrible thing, isn't it? I don't mind at all. I didn't even mind when I did it. I don't know why, I just didn't. I put on my gloves—and then I took my handkerchief and wiped off the gun and the door-knobs and everything. I went slowly, I didn't hurry at all."

"But when I was halfway up the stairs—nearly to the fourth floor—I remembered the gloves. I didn't know whether they could get fingerprints off a pair of gloves or not, so I just went back to get them."

"I walked very slowly and carefully, holding on to the rail and not bothering to hold my skirt so that it wouldn't trail on the dirty stairs. I opened the door and switched on the light, and even then I didn't mind. I just got the gloves from the piano where I had dropped them and walked out with them. I dropped them in the hopper in the third floor lavatory on my way upstairs."

"And the plumbing went crazy the next night. Remember? I pretended I thought it was the key that did it, but I knew it was the gloves. I wasn't afraid though. I knew that if Gil had fixed things so that no one would believe he even knew me, then he had also fixed things so that no one knew I knew him."

"I'd thought of everything—or rather he'd thought of everything for me."

"The perfect—the perfect"—I couldn't quite bring out the word "crime" but I had started, and I didn't know how to stop.

Emilie smiled.

"No," she said, "I guess there isn't any. There's always something. That Chris Hall. And of course Pete."

I don't know much about sick people, but I knew that she had talked entirely too much. I said I would come back after a while, and she had better rest.

MILK IS A GREATER NUTRITION AID THAN ANY OTHER ONE FOOD

By Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)

Milk contributes more to good nutrition than does any other single food, has no equal among foods as a source of calcium and is valuable also for other materials necessary throughout life.

Because milk reinforces the diet in many different ways, it is the modest foundation on which to build wholesome meals for the family. Milk valuable for maintenance in adults for growth in children. A general daily allowance is 1 quart (or its equivalent in other dairy products) for every child, 1 quart for every adult or nursing woman, and 1 pint for every other adult. This includes milk used in food preparation as well as milk taken as a beverage.

Milk products such as cream, buttermilk and cheese as well as milk used in the preparation of other foods can materially to the nutritive value of meals. Milk and vegetables served together in creamed dishes supplement each other especially well in food value. Milk soups offer an attractive and nutritive way of combining milk with other foods in the main dish for dinner or supper.

Flavored milk beverages afford a variety to children and other persons who take large quantities of milk daily. The flavors appeal to those who do not like to drink plain milk, or who prefer any food prepared in some unusual way.

Chocolate and cocoa are probably the most popular milk beverages served around because they are good either hot or ice-cold, and they are easy and quickly made at home. In the tourist cookery and in low cost diets they are featured because they may be made not only of fresh milk or skim milk but equally well of milk reconstructed from the dried, evaporated or condensed products.

Questions are often asked about the ability of chocolate and cocoa in forming milk for young children. Of two, cocoa is the more suitable because it is less rich in fat. However, cocoa and chocolate contain theobromine, which acts as a stimulant and both are undesirable to use in large quantities or frequently in the diet of children. Used occasionally and not too strong cocoa adds pleasing variety to milk beverages and milk desserts.

Cafe au lait, which is merely hot milk flavored with a little very strong coffee has greater food value than ordinary coffee and cream, but because of the caffeine it is not a good drink for children.

Milk shakes and egg-nogs are nutritious drinks. To make a particularly smooth egg-nog, beat hot milk into the egg, add the desired flavoring and then chill the mixture before serving. The proportion of flavoring to use in all of these milk beverages depends on individual taste. Children and invalids generally prefer them rather delicately flavored. Shaking or beating milk drinks until they are frothy when served adds to their attractiveness.

A mixture of equal quantities of milk and cream called "half and half" and a combination of buttermilk and cream are richer in flavor and in food value than is plain milk. Ice cold buttermilk lemonade is a refreshing and nutritious drink when made with buttermilk and somewhat more lemon juice and sugar than used in ordinary lemonade. Whey is sometimes flavored with fruit juice, sweetened and served as a beverage.

Points to Remember—Milk is valuable for the nutrition of young and old, sick and well, inactive and hard working.

A generous daily quota of milk is especially necessary during the years of rapid growth.

Milk has no equal among foods as a source of calcium which is needed by everyone for sound teeth and strong bones.

The proteins of milk are unusually efficient for growth and are valuable throughout life in maintaining tissue in good condition.

Milk is unique among foods because each of the six vitamins now known is found in it in small or large quantities. Milk fat is often used as the principal source of vitamin A in the diet and skim milk of Vitamin C.

In the low-cost diet milk is prominent because it provides high quality protein calcium and vitamins A and G cheaply.

Dried, evaporated and condensed milk are often used to advantage in place of fresh milk. Skim milk in either liquid or dried form is an important food material.

Artificial feeding of infants has lost many of its hazards since clean milk of low bacterial count has come on the market, raw, pasteurized, canned and dried. If soft curd milk and vitamin enriched milk become more generally available infant feeding will be further simplified.

A good refrigerator that holds a low constant temperature in the milk compartment is a safeguard to health.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—The war has put costume jewelry back into first place in popularity. With clothes emphasizing practicality and duration lines, the light and frivolous touch can be supplied by scintillating ornamentation. Lively novelties, fanciful pieces and amusing forms are preferred by Hollywood stars.

As Bette Davis says, "costume jewelry should be just that—not an attempt to duplicate real and precious pieces, such as the imitations worn by women who keep the originals in safes."

Bette loves costume jewelry and herself chose several of the pieces she wears in her next Warner Bros. picture, "Now, Voyager." One, which is used to clasp a chiffon scarf at the deep neckline of a beaded white evening gown, is an exquisite bow of brilliant. It is four inches in width but extremely graceful.

In the hilarious comedy, "George Washington Slept Here," Ann Sheridan adds a touch of glitter to a sleekly tailored afternoon dress of chocolate-brown wool by wearing a large clip of gold leaves, set at the center with a simulated yellow topaz.

Robert Cummings, who recently completed a lead role opposite Olivia de Havilland in Warner Bros. "Princess O'Rourke," has joined the Air Corps Reserve, and has presented Mrs. Cummings with a stunning pair of diamond frosted wings that fasten together to be worn as a lapel clip or can be worn separately as ear clips.

Olivia de Havilland purchased a silver fantasy while in New York recently. It is a gay little butterfly net from which tiny butterflies dangle on very fine chains.

Two shades of gold—yellow and red—are combined in a smart pin worn by Brenda Marshall, who will be seen next in "You Can't Escape Forever." The pin is in the form of a spray, the leaves of which are yellow gold, the flowers red.

YOU CAN WIN A $25 War Savings Bond

BY WRITING 25 WORDS OR LESS

JUST FINISH THIS SENTENCE:

"My family is drinking more milk today because"

Drinking plenty of milk is more important than ever today when America needs everyone's best efforts. It helps to build vigor, helps you to avoid "war nerves"—the tenseness and irritability that come from longer working hours, worry over war news, upset living conditions.

For authorities say that calcium reduces the irritability of tissue and relaxes muscles. Milk contains several times as much calcium as any other common food—in readily assimilable form. And it has other minerals and vitamins which promote health. It is Nature's most nearly perfect food.

You may win a $25 War Savings Bond by writing how milk has helped your family.

And here's an easy way to give your family all the milk they need. Serve them Tastier Supplee Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin D Milk. Tastes better and is better for everyone. Order from your Supplee milkman, your neighborhood store or phone Bristol 2117.

Bucks County War Price and Rationing Board. There should be added to a posted list of ceiling prices on cigarettes, for example, they said, a notice to the effect that a half-cent of federal tax will be charged for each package of cigarettes sold.

"In all cases, they pointed out, the tax must be stated separately from the ceiling price—on bills or invoices if they are used, otherwise orally. If the tax per unit contains a fraction of one-half cent or higher, the total price to the consumer may be adjusted to the next higher cent. Any fraction amounting to less than one-half cent must be absorbed by the seller.

"A buyer may eliminate or reduce any fractional charge in excess of the actual tax by purchasing two or more units at a time. On cigarettes selling under a ceiling of 15 cents per package, for instance, the seller passing on the tax of one-half cent on a single package would be permitted to charge 16 cents; but if the consumer purchased two packages at once, the total charge could not be more than 31 cents.

"On the other hand, the seller, while he must absorb a tax of less than one-half cent on a single unit, may total the taxes per unit on a sale of more than one unit and pass them on if the total amounts to one-half cent or more."

"For example, the new tax of $1 a barrel on beer will amount to about 3 1/10 of a cent per 12-ounce bottle. This seller must absorb on sales of a single bottle, but if a consumer buys two or three bottles at once, the total tax for the sale will amount to 6/10 or 9/10 of a cent, and the seller may add one cent in either case to the total charge for the purchase to cover the tax.

"However, the seller is not permitted to force the customer to buy more than one unit as a condition to making the sale, unless that was his practice during the base period fixed by the regulation—usually March, 1942."

needed for Senatorial confirmation of gubernatorial nominations. Martin carried 57 of the State's 67 counties, with the Republican stronghold of Philadelphia exhibiting surprising Democratic strength and giving him a majority of only 500 votes, a margin which may be changed when absentee soldiers' ballots are tabulated. Martin lost his home county of Washington but carried Butler, his opponent's county.

The 10 counties carried by Ross were: Allegheny, Berks, Cambria, Columbia, Elk, Fayette, Greene, Lackawanna, Westmoreland and Washington.

SCRAP DRIVE

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—Pleas for scrap to be converted to war use are being taken literally and to heart by University of Cincinnati students and faculty.

A preliminary search for old metal engravings and cuts used in campus publications and accumulating since 1900 yielded nearly 700 pounds of copper and 200 pounds of zinc.

NATIONAL ANTHEM A "MUST"

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—(INS)—The "Star Spangled Banner" and its verses is now a "must" in all schools here, according to Miss Mary O. James, supervisor of vocal music in the schools. "One thing sure is that the next generation in Youngstown will be able to sing the national anthem if the occasion arises and they'll know every word of it," said Miss James.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, as we come to the close of another day it is with gratitude in our hearts for the blessings which it has contained. The fact that we have survived its hardships and its difficulties demonstrates thy blessing upon us. We thank thee for thy provision for all our needs—for the food we eat, the air we breathe, the clothes we wear. Thus provide for us spiritually as we further wait upon thee. May our fellowship with thee be complete; may our dependence upon thee be absolute so that our lives will completely reflect thy presence and thy blessing. Through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

The saga of the making of "Tales of Manhattan," which opens today at the Grand Theatre, has some of the fabulous qualities of the picture itself. Imagine Boris Morros and S. P. Eagle—the producers—as a sort of composite Scheherazade, and you have a story of high adventure not too far removed from the Arabian Nights—except for the fact that it is one ended in the solid achievement of a motion picture containing nine big Hollywood stars and some 20 almost-as-big feature players.

RITZ THEATRE

Those popular headliners, the Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys, display their thespian wares to plump advantage in "Tough As They Come," a thumping melodrama which opened yesterday at the Ritz Theatre. The picture is full of action, well-pointed drama and packs a convincing moral punch. "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" is also showing.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Betty Grable, John Payne and Victor Mature are starred in "Footlight Serenade," at the Bristol Theatre, today, which is hailed as the "perfect tonic for the times." Featuring love, laughs and lyrics, it is indeed a merry musical treat.

With a story that spells entertainment all the way, "Footlight Serenade" tells of a fighter who turns actor. Victor Mature realistically portrays the boxer, as John Payne can testify—while both boys are "nuts" about curvaceous Betty Grable, as who isn't!

BENSALEM GIRLS SCORE HOCKEY WIN OVER BRISTOL HIGH

Goals by Doris Gonzalez and Mildred Cook Aid Victory

FINAL SCORE IS 2 TO 0

Bristol Threatened Toward End of Game But Owlettes' Defense Stood Firm

Goals by Doris Gonzalez and Mildred Cook gave the Bensalem girls' hockey eleven a 2-0 victory over Bristol High School yesterday afternoon on the local field. It was the second time Bensalem was victorious over Bristol, the Owlettes scoring a 3-0 victory last week.

Gonzalez was first to score, her goal coming shortly after the second half got under way. She received a pass from Lois Grupp and batted the pill past Burton, the Bristol goal-keeper. Cook's goal did not come very long afterwards as the Bensalem team started a march down the field which came to a climax when Cook received a pass from her right wing to score the goal.

Bristol threatened in the late part of the contest but the Owlettes' defense was too strong. Neither team had very many shots at the goal in the first half.

A Junior Varsity game was also played and ended in a scoreless deadlock with either team showing very much in the way of offensiveness, the ball going back and forth throughout the game.

BUSY PHYSICIAN

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—Dr. L. B. Turner, 80-year-old Columbus physician, has plenty to worry about and it isn't his age and health. Actively engaged in the practice of medicine, Turner is afraid he may have to give up his post as secretary of a Columbus draft board due to his increasing medical practice brought on by many younger M. D.'s entering the armed forces.

BENSALEM HIGH GRIDDERS TO TAKE ON LOWER MORELAND HIGH TOMORROW AFTERNOON ON OWLS' FIELD

Hoping to rebound after its defeat of last week, the Bensalem high grid-ers will take on the Lower Moreland high school football team tomorrow afternoon on the Owls' field at Cornwells Heights. Game is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

A large crowd is expected as this will be the only Friday afternoon game played in this section this season. All other games are scheduled on Saturdays or Thanksgiving Day. The Owls looked sloppy in their game against Morrisville last week which saw the Bulldogs practically eliminated Coach Wetherhold's team from the Lower Bucks County Conference. The playing of the Bensalemites was a complete reversal of their showing against Jenkintown two weeks ago.

Coach Wetherhold offered no excuses for his boys against Morrisville, saying that some of his players seemed to be more interested in the gunning season than playing Morrisville that afternoon. He knows that his proteges could have made a better showing and is hoping that things will be better against the Lower Moreland Institute.

The Bensalem - Lower Moreland game will also be a barometer as to how the Owls will shape up against Langhorne when the teams clash Thanksgiving Day morning. Langhorne beat out the Moreland boys, 6-0, with a forward pass in the closing quarter of the game.

If the Owls can topple Moreland then their chances against Langhorne will take a leap upward as it will be the final chance for the Blue and White to earn a Lower Bucks victory this season.

The Owls' probable starting lineup will have: Ends, Adrian and Robinson; tackles, Johnson and Rief; guards, G. Geiges and Werler; center, E. Geiges; quarterback, Hutton; half-backs, Deans and Rehm; fullback, Vinson.
